Right to Know Law

The Right to Know Law is Pennsylvania's Open Records Law. On February 14, 2008, Governor Rendell signed the Right to Know Law and it went into effect on January 1, 2009. For additional information concerning the Right to Know Law, please visit: Pennsylvania Office of Open Records.

All requests for information must be submitted in writing to:
Salvaggio Academy
Attn: Office Administrator
3145 Hamilton Blvd. Bypass,
Allentown, PA 18103

Fees will be assessed for each request and prepayment will be necessary for completion. Every attempt will be made to send the information to the request party through the requested media. However, Salvaggio Academy will not convert records to the requested format unless the document is maintained in that format.
